Prepare both a summary paragraph and a general description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

This house is located on the north side of the road, west of the intersection of the two parts of Walnut Point Road, near the town of Conococheague. The building is L-shaped in form, with both sections 2½ stories in height and gable roofed. The eastern block of the house is aligned with its two-bay wide gable end facing the road, while the western part is built with the ridge of the roof running parallel to the road.

A wooden porch is located on the south facade of the western section, and the present main entrance of the house appears to be located here. The east block has a one-story wing built on its east wall. A small brick interior (south) end chimney is located on the east block. The house is probably of frame construction and is sheathed with white clapboards; it is in good condition and well maintained.

Prepare both a summary paragraph of significance and a general statement of history and support.

The George King house is architecturally significant for its unusual L-shaped plan and orientation to the road. The house, which probably dates from the mid to late 19th century, appears to be in good condition. The house is probably the George King house shown on the 1877 Lake, Griffing, and Stevenson atlas of Washington County.
